GLAD® make-ahead meals series #30

Soy-Steamed Vegetables with Salmon Medallions

Serves 1

- | | |
|--|---|
| 6 ounces skinless salmon fillet,
cut into 6 to 8 medallions | 1 scallion, thinly sliced |
| 1 teaspoon grated fresh ginger | ¼ red, yellow or orange bell
pepper, julienned |
| 1 tablespoon low-sodium soy sauce | 1 ounce snow peas |
| ½ teaspoon sesame oil | 6 asparagus spears (¼ bunch),
cut into 1-inch pieces |
| freshly ground black pepper | ½ cup bok choy leaves, chopped |
| 3 medium fresh shiitake or
button mushrooms | cooked soba noodles |

1. Prepare scallions, bell pepper, snow peas, asparagus and bok choy; set aside or store until ready to use. 2. Place salmon medallions in a GLAD SimplyCooking™ Microwave Steaming Bag, coat with the ginger, soy sauce and sesame oil, and sprinkle with black pepper. Marinate in the refrigerator, if desired. 3. Remove stems from mushrooms, and slice caps thinly. Place cut vegetables in bag. 4. Microwave bag on high for 2 minutes.* 5. Let bag sit 30 seconds before opening, and serve with cooked soba noodles. 6. For two servings, simply double the recipe and prepare another GLAD SimplyCooking™ Microwave Steaming Bag for microwaving after the first one.

*For medium GLAD SimplyCooking™ Microwave Steaming Bags in 1,000-watt microwave oven (oven power varies; adjust time accordingly).

Smart Steaming Tips

- Steaming locks in nutrients, so take advantage by selecting deeply colored vegetables — they tend to have the most vitamins, minerals and fiber.
- Because steam is hotter than boiling water, food cooks surprisingly fast. Most raw vegetables, for instance, will be crisp and tender in about three minutes when steamed. Also, be sure to cut vegetables around the same size so they cook evenly.
- Add even more flavor to your meal by increasing the amount of fresh ginger or scallions, or by adding garlic or dill. You can also try drizzling white wine, soy sauce or lemon juice on top before cooking.
